

International Podcast Month is announced, and it's going to be fabulous.

Contact:

Tess Cocchio

podmonth@gmail.com

For its inaugural event, the project has an impressive list of folks collaborating.

2018-07-31

After months of organization and discussion, and finally recording, the first ever International Podcast Month (IPM) is announced and ready to launch. With over 75 podcasters involved, it's incredible that this project has been kept secret for so long! "We are beyond excited for listeners to hear their favourite podcasters collaborating," says Tess Cocchio, host and founder of IPM. "Our goal is to be celebrate creators and invite listeners to try out new shows. We can't wait for them to hear what we have prepared."

With over 35 episodes of exclusive content, International Podcast Month aims to be a great success for its inaugural year. "I'm excited to hear so many of my friends, even the ones I haven't met yet, celebrate podcasting together," says Richard Krutz-Landry, co-designer of Descent Into Midnight, one of the games played for one of the RPG one-shot episodes being released in September.

Interested parties can find the project's home at www.internationalpodcastmonth.com.

About

A group of like-minded podcasters have declared September as International Podcast Month (IPM). IPM is a wonderful opportunity for us to cross-promote, celebrate each other, and share the love of podcasting with the world. To celebrate, a collaboration of many diverse and inclusive podcasting folks have recorded RPG one-shots and Audio-Drama Minisodes, and have contributed to a month-long blog.